COULDN'T HIT CARSEY.

The Senators Have Trouble With the

Philadelphia Twirler. A game of base ball that lacked interest ing features to an unusual degree to the local rooters was won yesterday at National Park by the Philadelphia club. The fact that Washington could not connect with the delivery of Pitcher Carsey was the main cause of defeat. King, who was in the box for the home club, was batted rather freely, and in bunches, the visitors knocking out five hits in the second inning. two in the third, two in the fourth and three in the seventh. Washington secured nine hits, but, except in the seventh inning. they were widely scattered.

Philadelphia led off with three runs in the second, added another in the third, and increased the lead to six in the fourth. No one entertained a doubt that the visitors would not win, for it was apparent that Carsey was in winning form. It might be remarked incidentally that the twirler mentioned has never lost a game in Washing-ton. Had it not been for an attempt by Cross to capture a fly ball from Joyce' bat in the seventh that was clearly in Hu-len's territory the home team would probably have been shut out. Washington's three runs were made in the seventh on hits by De Montreville, Brown and Abbey and an error by Cross. Delehanty appeared in left field for the visitors, and made two of the hits credited to them. McCauley caught for the home team. The work of Umpire Keefe on balls strikes seemed to be unsatisfactory. and the spectators gave expression of their disapproval in a manner more demonstra-tive than has been seen here for many a

SHAKING UP, THE PHILLIES.

Five Men Said to Be Slated for Re-Rumors that the owners of the Philadelphia club yesterday decided upon a hard shake-up in their team, and that five men have been marked for release-Hallman, Sullivan, McGill, Carsey and Turner-have floated in this direction from Philadelphia. The reason assigned for letting the first four go is that they persist in violating the club's rules. These refer to keeping in good enough physical condition to play winning ball. Turner refuses to take instructions about playing the outfield, and the management has grown fired trying to teach

THE CREWS AT POUGHKEEPSIE

According to the rumored plans, Capt.
Nash is to start Sunday on a tour of the minor league circuits and secure the best youngsters available. They are to be shipped here and put into harners at once. The club has given up all thought of winning the pennant this year, since it cannot get half of its men to play to win games in-stead of trying to make individual records, The suposed idea is to break in the youngsters this season, so they will be in good form to start next year. Nash will probably give up playing and levote all his time to managing the team. Cross is to be placed permanently at third and Hulen at short. Hallman will be re-Brouthers intends to reture from base ball at the end of the season, so he will not be disturbed unless he less in his batting, but Nash's instructions are to get a new first baseman, and he is said to have his eye on Carey of Syracuse, who was with Baltimore last year. placed at second by a rew man. Several young pitchers, it is said, are to be signed and broken in at once, Taylor, Orth and Lucid in the meantime taking their regular turns in the box. Clements and Grady will be retained and so will Boyle, unless he is traded off on some deal, the outfield and a new outfielder will be added. The club tried to get Dexter of Louisville last week, but Manager McGunnigle would enter into only one proposition and that was to trade for Cross, which was not agreed to. A number of deals are on and it is likely hat instead of being released outright Hallman, Sullivan, Turner, Carsey and Mc-Gill will be disposed of in trades inside of a fortnight. Sneers From Philadelphia.

The Philadelphia papers refer to yesterday's game in the following wise: Now try it again

Put out the flags. Attendance, 6,867. How did they do it? And now for Baltimore. And the goat grazed on. Who said release Carsey? Where are those new faces? There's discord in the ranks. And the parret is still talking. And now we must wait until Saturday. The guessers have another guess coming.

It's not a new manager they want, but one that will manage. So Grady will catch only when he wants to. Good management.

TWO STYLES OF ROWING.

Yale Men's Backs Bent Little, Englishmen's Very Much. Ralph D. Paint, who is with the Yale crew at Henley, England, wires as follows to the New York Journal:

The Yale crew got down to solid work today and practiced on the Thames both in the morning and afternoon. The men rowed better than they did yesterday. There is still, however, much to criticise in their work, and Bob Cook ripped up the men severely today. It will be a week before they get into fair form of criticism. The men are boyish and immature, and their heads have rather and immature, and their heads have rather been turned by their strange surroundings. Their rowing today showed a lack of steadiness, a fault which, however, they will overcome. The boat has not been rigged properly as yet, and the relative po-sitions of the crew will have to be changed. Exercise on Land and Water.

During the early morning today Cook took his crew for a long run through the country, and at intervals of rest talked emphatically of the work to be done in the future. He warned the men against the natural distractions of the place and begged them each to do his level best in training river to an island about a mile distant, and then down and back again. Cook rode along the bank on a bicycle, coaching hard. His chief effort was made in lengthening the stroke, which showed a tendency to be too short. The Trinity Hall crew was out for a part of the time, and their body work was awful from the Yale point of view, the men almost lying down in their boat. But the Trinity oars hit the water hard and left it smooth, and in this respective crew did better work than did Yale. This afternoon the American crew went up the river two miles and back again. The wind was strong spoiling the water, The wind was strong spolling the water, and there was a little rain and mist. Cook followed the boat in a pair-oared gig, rowed by Whitney and Mills, and again paid much attention to the lengthening of the All Yale needs is a little more stead!

ness to put the boat through the water at a rattling pace. The general opinion here is that the American stroke is too short, but therein lies all the difference between the Yale and the English theories. The Men in Fine Quarters.

Sir Edwards Moss called at the Americans' quarters today, as did Trevor Jones, the Cambridge coach. The Yale men are fairly bewildered by the magnificence of their quarters. Marsh Mill House is luxurlously furnished, and is one of the finest country seats along the Thames. The dlet here is much the same as that the men had in New Haven, consisting of chops, beef, eggs, fish, vegetables, ale and

The arrival of the crew has attracted rany Americans to Henley, and today a launch in which were several American girls passed the eight several times. The glrls gave them a lusty Yale cheer, which did the rowers good.

Cook is dissatisfied with his coaching by bicycle and wants to get a launch. He is shy of the wheel, and fears that in his preoccupation he may ride overboard.

Yale an Unknown Quantity. Yale is still the unknown quantity to Thames rowing men, and what she will do puzzles the prophets. Trinity Hall men are reluctant in giving opinions until the Yale boat is in good trim. The crack Dutch crew, which was entered for the grand challenge cup, is not coming, becoming regatta, it is expected, will be the greatest on record, and the hotels are this afternoon will be the Bureau of Printing and Engraving and the Treasury Department. A close same is expected as Club, in London, and have received more invitations than they can possibly ac-cept. They are all in fine feather and are

ROWING AT POUGHKEEPSIE.

Interest Centered in the Work of the Cornell Crew. Interest in the work of the college oars men centered yesterday afternoon in the work of the Cornell crews. The 'varsity and freshmen crews were out together, accompanied by Coach Courtney, on the launch Cornell. They took a 71/2-mile row and seemed to be in fine form.

Just as the Cornellians were going into their boat house last evening the Pennsylvania 'varsity crew came along close to the float, followed by Ellis Wardon in the Ben Franklin. The Correll crew gave the college yell, and the launches of the two other crews exchanged salutes. The Pennsylvania freshmen, having rowed in the morning, did not get into their boat last even-ing, but watched the 'varsity row from the laurch. It is said that the senior Pennsylvania crew made the four miles on a very strong ebb tide in less than twenty minutes, and that Ward is so well satisfied with their condition that he will row them only enough to keep them in form until the The Columbia and Harvard crews rowed at the upper end of the course last night. They took short spins, having been through extending practice in starts and spurts during the morning.

APPROVED BY WHEELMEN.

The Proposed Parade of the Cyclists The proposed wheelmen's parade under the auspices of the League of American Wheelmen is meeting with a good deal of excellent organ work, playing the full four encouragement. Since the league has taken charge of the matter three other clubs have decided to participate, with many more to hear from, to say nothing of the vast numbers of unattached wheelmen, who will, in all probability, outnumber the club turnou; three or four times. The suggestion made in The Star yesterday that the parade be held during the Christian En-deavor convention is acknowledged by all to be a good plan, and at the meeting of the parade committee Friday evening the suggestion will most likely be carried out.

A delegation of the Christian Endeavor committee will most likely be present, and a general understanding reached.

At the Friday evening meeting there will be considerable other work done by the parade committee. So far there is promise of three floats in line, and before the time for the parade arrives it is calculated that there will be over a dozen floats in the parade. Arrangements are now being made to have the Mt. Pleasant Field Band head that told it was at least eighty years old, the line, taking about thirty members of and had no reason for telling anything exthe line, taking about thirty includes the line of line about the line the arrangement of the big bass drum on a wheel, but the problem will be solved by using a tandem for the purpose, the drum occupying the front seat and the drummer the rear saddle. The arrangements for prizes will also be brought up and a subscription list decided upon.

the International Park. The entry blanks for the various events have made their appearance, and a good list of entrants is expected. The events consist of a one-mile bicycle race, with two prizes; 100-yards run, two prizes; individual competitive drill, open to members of the National Guard; 440-yards run, two prizes; one-third mile run, with equipments, and two-mile handicap bleycle race, three prizes. In the third event field dress will be worn, including forage cap, web belt and leggins, while in the fifth event the full field dress, knapsack, blanket and gun will be carried by the contestants. The entries for the bicycle races will not close until July 4 for the handicap race, and July 6 for the open event.

Instructor Crossley Engaged.

At ampico we recommered our larst rain, and unusual and unusual proposed in this was not out of the ordinary, he answered: "Usually rain now is not unusual, but as unusual conditions were recently usual, the present rain is unusual."

A meeting of the board of governors of the Columbia Athletic Club was held Tuesday evening, the outcome of which was the tendering to John C. Crossley his old position as athletic instructor of the club. Instructor Crossley will take charge of the gymnasium July 1. Since Instructor Crossley's withdrawal from the position of athletic instructor of the club the gymnasium has been practically deserted, and athletics have been at a standstill for some time. With his re-engagement, however, this state of affairs, it is confidently believed, will be changed. Instructor Cross-ley probably has no superior in the coun-try as an athletic gymnasium instructor, and as he is popular with the members, and in fact all over the city a decided spurt in affairs on the upper floor of the club house may be looked for in a short Forfeit Declared.

Unusual Rain.

From Hardware. In Mexico City for six months in the year there is no rain, while during the other half of the year it rains daily for a short time. As you go about, you visit places where it rains daily, and a few miles away you find a place where it rains only twice a year, and yet in another locality you are told it has not rained for eight years, while at Leon no rain has fallen for fifteen years. At Tampico we encountered our first rain,

"Well, that just shows the extremes to which a determined and revengeful man may go. He had a quarrel with Dusen-bury night before last, and I'll bet he just did this to get even. He always was a mighty small, mean man in some ways.
